

Steps for Readmission for Disqualified Students

Readmission Criteria

- Students who are academically disqualified from Fresno State are required to be out for a minimum of one semester after their disqualification (summer not included). Students must demonstrate academic improvement by completing courses through Fresno State Open University or any other regionally accredited institution.
- Complete one of the following course options through a regionally accredited institution (6 units minimum):
 - a. General Education (GE) foundation (Area A and B4) requirements*
 - b. If the foundation is complete, take 6 units of other remaining GE requirements
 - c. If all lower division GE coursework has been completed, take at least 6 units of degree or career-applicable CSU transferable coursework. (This may include upper-division coursework taken through Open University).

Options b or c are only available if the student completes option a.*
Note: (Fall applicants cannot use summer course work prior to the term student is reapplying).

 - d.
- A student's overall transfer work after disqualification must be a minimum 2.30 GPA and needs to be in good academic standing at the last institution attended.
 - a. Fall applicants must have graded coursework of a 2.30 GPA by end of fall term (winter intersession may be considered) prior to admission. All requirements must be completed by end of spring prior to the fall term of admissions.
 - b. Spring applicants must have graded coursework of 2.30 GPA by end of summer term prior to admissions. All requirements by end of summer prior to the spring term of admissions.
